Spc. Anthony Authorlee is a member of the World Class Athlete Program's Track & Field Team.

Spc.. Authorlee qualified for the 2000 Olympic Trials, holding the "A" Standard at 200m. In 2000, he placed 2nd at the New Westminster International (100m) and captured gold at the Alberni Track Meet (200m). As a part of a 4x400 team, he placed first at the 2003 Hilton Memorial Track Meet and the 2003 Niswonger Invitational, and second at the 2003 Houston Invitational and the 2003 Mountain T. Invitational. More recently, Spc. Authorlee won the bronze medal at the 2004 Drummond Invitational.

An artillery soldier, Spc. Authorlee entered the Army on Aug. 19, 2001. He completed basic training in November 2001 and advanced individual training in December 2001.

Spc. Authorlee joined the Army "for the benefits and to one day say that I actually served my country and I'm proud of it. Being a member of the Army's World Class Athlete Program is important to me because I get to achieve my track and field goals and also be a soldier-athlete."

Spc. Authorlee loves his particular sport because not everyone can run fast. He gets pumped up for competition by praying and knowing he has prepared to the best of his ability. When Spc. Authorlee is not practicing or training he likes to play basketball.

He is a graduate of Ross Shaw Sterling High School in Houston, Tex., and is pursuing a degree through the University of Houston in Houston, Tex.

Personal Bests: 100m – 10.18; 200m – 20.44; 400m – 45.55
